FX VIEW

Tariff Man has shocked again. This time, it's down south, across the border, its Mexico. White House has said that U.S. will impose a 5% tariff on all Mexican imports from June 10 - and duties of up to 25% will be added in the coming months if Mexico does not take action to "reduce or eliminate the number of illegal aliens" crossing into the U.S. Mexican Peso has tumbled nearly 2% on this news. US stock futures have received a half a percent cut during the Asian hours. However, the sell-off is not all that deep in Asian equity markets, as Chinese stocks are flat but Japanese stocks are down, led by auto stocks. Asian currencies are trading marginally weaker against USD and USDCNH is inching towards 6.94. USDINR on the NDF is quoting 69.73, 14 paise lower from the 69.87 close yesterday. Rupee is able to buck the weakness, thanks to the sell-off in crude oil futures. Brent crude is trading at 66 dollars a barrel.

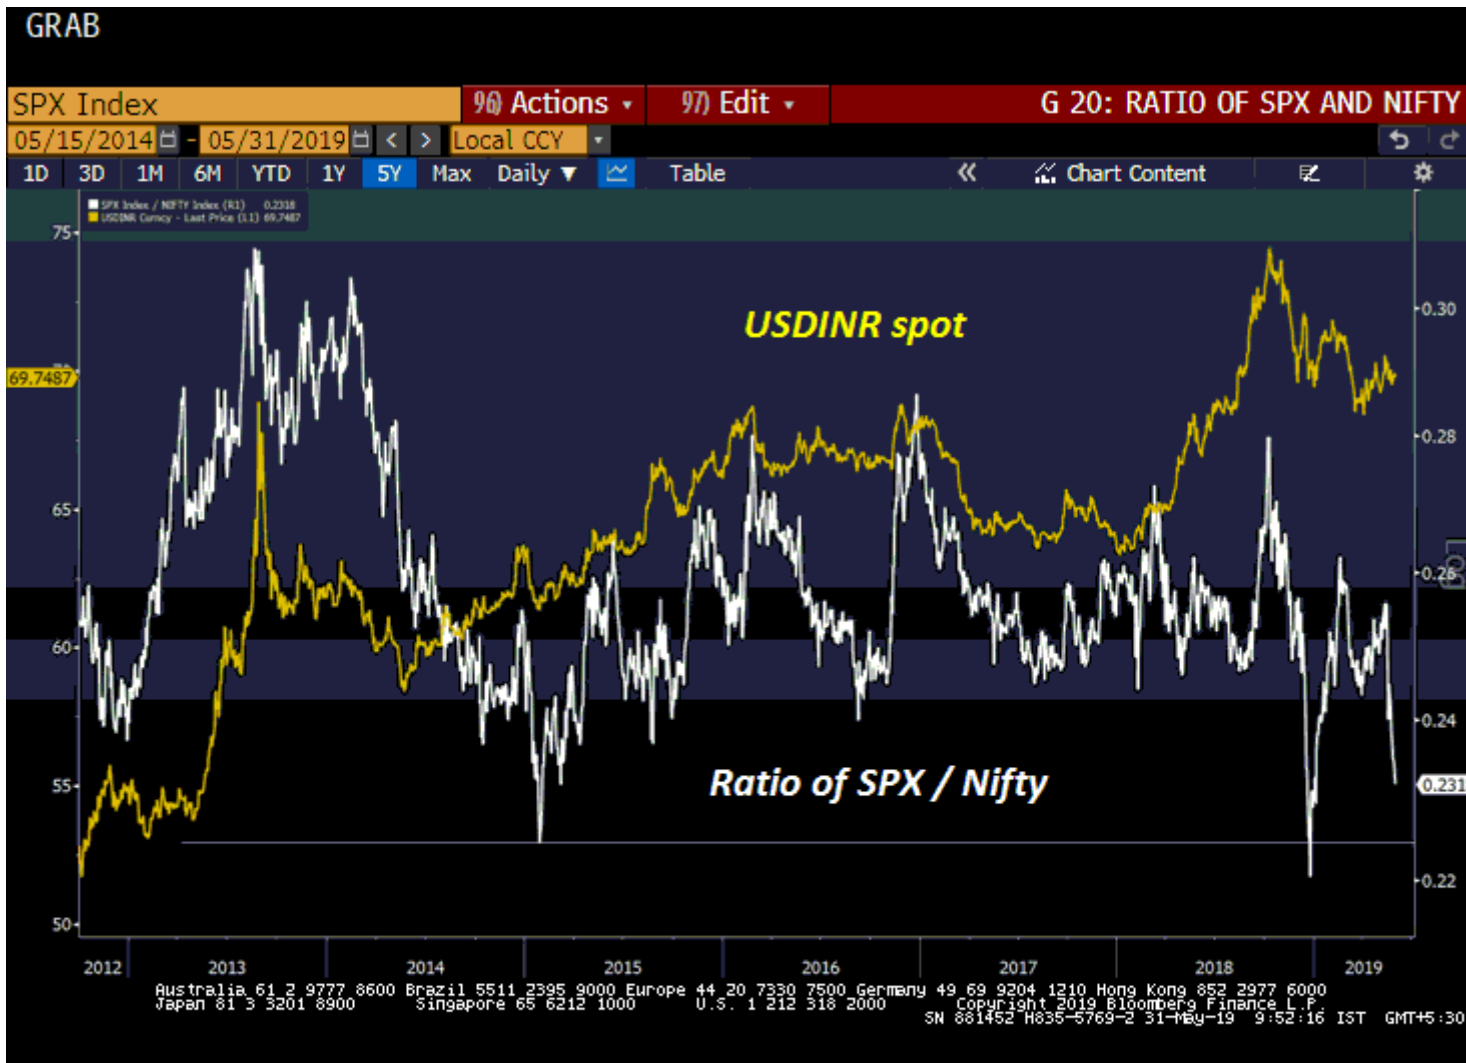

Overnight in economic news, the second print on first-quarter U.S. GDP indicated that the economy expanded by 3.1% on an annualized basis over the three months. But US pending Home Sales Index. Sales were 2% lower compared with April 2018, the 16th straight month of annual declines. There were no major economic data release from EZ or UK. Chinese PMI came in weaker than expected.

Traders will be watching the release of Q1 GDP from India. Growth is expected to slow to 6.1% in Q1. Impact of the data will be seen on Monday open.

TECHNICAL VIEW & RUPEE CROSSES:

USDINR remains in a primary downtrend as the downtrending channel is intact. However, lack of momentum means traders would have to trade in and out or else, one can run a positional short, which can be rolled over, earning the carry. However, maintain stop loss above 70.50 levels on such positional trades. For this week, in USDINR we are inclined to sell on rise. Resistance zone is 70.00/70.10 regions on a spot reference basis. Stop need to be placed above 70.10 on a closing basis. Support is around 69.30/40 and 69.65/70 levels on spot. One can look at selling OTM options to receive premium as the pair remains range bound. In Rupee crosses, EURINR sports a bearish structure and hence trade remains to sell on rise as long as the pair holds below 79.00 on spot. On GBPINR structure remains firmly bearish and hence sell on rise with stop above 90.50 on a closing basis. On JPYINR, wait for a pullback in the 62.50/63.00 on spot, before attempting fresh long position and maintain stop below 62.00 on a daily closing basis.
